Comment: Closed strongly for second at Newcastle last start, beaten a length and a half by Zouboy after being held up passing the 1 1/2f. That followed a determined Mdn win at Tuncurry, where he beat Wan Lost by just over half a length. He is third-up, proven around 6f and holding form well, though barrier 8 means he may need things to unfold cleanly. Draw is the query, but his current form reads well enough to be right in this.

Comment: Was last of nine at Newcastle first-up, beaten eight and a half lengths after racing keenly early and making no impression late. His Mdn win at Kembla Grange earlier in the year came over 7 1/2f as favourite, so there is some ability there, but he is yet to win at around 6f. Earlier Mdn win was over 7 1/2f, so this 6f contest asks for a sharper performance.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after five months off and has won two trials since last racing, including one at Gosford two weeks ago. She ended last campaign with a heavy-ground Randwick-Kensington failure in FM BM64 company, beaten over 19 lengths, after an earlier favourite defeat at Hawkesbury. Class-exposed and profiles as the one to beat from the rails draw.

Comment: Back from a five-month break after two ninths to close last campaign, the latest at Hawkesbury when unwanted in the market and beaten just under eight lengths. He did win a Hawkesbury trial a few weeks ago and has placed at around 6f, so there is some freshen-up interest. Recent race form was plain, so he is more a minor hope than a standout.

Comment: Finished last at Hawkesbury first-up in a FM BM64, beaten just over eight lengths at big odds after settling rearward and never threatening. She was also well beaten there start prior, with only minor interference near the 2f before weakening further. Significant improvement is required.

Comment: Resumes after three months off following a flat Hawkesbury sixth before the break, beaten seven and a half lengths by Pierro Lad after making no ground. His Newcastle run prior was also below his best, yet he has one win and one place from two starts at this track and has won at this track and distance. Recent form was plain, but he can run into the placings.

Comment: Has been consistent without quite putting a race away, finishing fourth at Hawkesbury last start after being close enough on the turn but unable to improve. His Newcastle third prior came in a small field, again with market respect. The win edge is the knock, but he rates strongly.

Comment: Backs up after finishing fifth at Wyong last week, beaten three lengths at big odds, with a block early noted by stewards. His Kembla run prior was similar, working home only fairly after being steadied near the 4 1/2f. Still a low win-rate profile, so minor money looks the target.

Comment: Makes his debut with three Randwick trials behind him, the latest over 5 1/4f two weeks ago when fifth and beaten 2.75 lengths. The Jim and Greg Lee stable has placed five of six debut runners in the supplied record, which is some encouragement, but he carries 130lbs and lacks race experience against sharper profiles. Fitted with the three trials and look for him late.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after ending last campaign with a fourth at Newcastle, where he was near the top of betting but slow away and could not come on as expected on heavy ground. The start prior had more substance when third in a Class 1 at Taree, beaten just under a length after being bumped and forced wide. Has a host of gear changes and likely to need this.

Comment: Closed off better than sixth suggests at Scone last start, beginning slowly and racing keenly before making late ground to be beaten just over four lengths. That country run now has to stack up in harder company, but his Canberra debut third showed he can finish off when given room. Harder company, but a minor placing is within reach.

Comment: Debuts after two trials, with the latest a close third at Rosehill that gives him a sound fitness pointer for this first outing. The family provides real interest, being a half brother to Headwall, whose record includes Group sprint form, and Chad Schofield is a positive booking at this venue. Trialled okay and the lugging bit goes on, each way.

Comment: Arrives at the races with a strong debut platform, having won a Randwick trial over 5 1/4f after an earlier close second there. The profile is backed by a Waterhouse and Bott stable record of 30 wins from 111 supplied debut runners, while his full brother Best Of Bordeaux was a Group 2 winner and Group 1-placed at sprint trips. Well bred colt with strong debut claims.

Comment: Returns from a one-month freshening after a plain first-up last at Newcastle, beaten over 16 lengths at big odds after settling midfield and failing to close off. The start prior at Kembla was also last, beaten over 14 lengths, and there was no clear excuse in either run. Blinkers go on but has to find a lot more.

Comment: Was safely held on debut at Hawkesbury, finishing last of six and beaten seven lengths after being unwanted in the market. She raced keenly early, so there is some scope to settle better second-up, and the $100,000 yearling purchase had won a Warwick Farm trial before starting out. Earlier trial win gives some hope, but race form has to lift sharply.

Comment: Comes back from a mid-week Rosehill fifth into easier company after being steadied midrace and finishing fairly, beaten just under six lengths. Her previous run carries weight, an eighth in the Listed Tattersalls Stakes at Eagle Farm when beaten just over three lengths in Open grade. Strong place credentials, though the win has remained elusive.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell with two trial wins since last racing, including one at Muswellbrook a few weeks ago, so she looks forward enough for this. She ended last campaign with a Kembla Grange third, beaten just under two lengths as odds-on favourite after jumping awkwardly, following a Wyong second. Smart filly expected to aim up this prep with the two slick trials.

Comment: Has done little wrong in two starts, finishing second at Hawkesbury on debut when beaten a head before another second there last start, beaten a length and a half by Revolina. He was slow away last time yet still led and gave a good sight, and a Warwick Farm trial has kept him ticking over. The wide draw and 134lbs are queries, but his form is strong enough.

Comment: Resumes after a four-month break with two Hawkesbury seconds to his name, the latest when beaten just under two lengths by Viva Macaco on soft ground after sitting near the speed. His debut effort at big odds was also sound, and two trials, including a latest third at Randwick, suggest he has some fitness for the return. Honest profile, though the 133lbs keeps him in the place bracket.

Comment: Debuts for Con Karakatsanis after two trials, most recently a Rosehill fifth over 4 1/2f beaten 1.89 lengths. There is some family substance through Allegro Miss, a five-time winner and Canterbury city winner, but the available trial profile does not demand a major upgrade. Has to show more than the trial evidence.

Comment: Debuts with first-time blinkers, which is a positive gear signal, and she has had two trials to prepare, including a Warwick Farm third beaten 1.10 lengths. A $20,000 yearling purchase, she comes from a family that has produced city winners Detendu and Military Magic, while the stable has a solid debut record. Looks one of the more appealing debut place hopes.

Comment: Debuts after two Rosehill trials, with the profile mixed: she was narrowly beaten in a 4 1/2f trial in September before finishing ninth over 5 1/4f last month. The trainer has placed 16 of 39 debut runners, so there is some grounding, but the latest public hit-out was plain enough to temper expectations. The race-day case is still thin.

Comment: Debuts with a sound preparation behind her, including a latest solid third at Hawkesbury after earlier trials at the same venue. Brad Widdup is the top-ranked trainer for wins at this track, and the 7lbs claim from Leeshelle Small gives this filly a handy weight set-up from barrier one. Strong profile for a winning debut from the rails draw.

Comment: Returns from a six-month break after finishing second last on debut in a F Mdn at Warwick Farm, beaten five and a half lengths on heavy ground at long odds. She was bumped at the start and raced keenly, so there were learning elements, and a recent second in a Beaumont (newcastle) trial is a more encouraging sign. Debut was plain, but there is scope to return better.

Comment: Debuts with four trials behind her, most recently a Randwick sixth over 5 1/4f beaten 1.79 lengths, following a Warwick Farm second over 4f. She was most recently a $1,250 purchase after earlier selling for $180,000, and the trainer-sire combination has produced one win and four placings from five starts. Comment: Back after two months since a Newcastle sixth over 4 1/2f, beaten three and a half lengths, where she was close enough but could not be fully tested when awkwardly placed on heels. The start prior at the Beaumont was only fair in a Mdn, beaten four and a half lengths after settling back. Weight relief helps, but her recent form still leaves ground to make up.

Comment: Returns from a six-week freshening after being second last at Scone, beaten just over eight lengths at big odds, though he did race wide throughout. The run prior at Tuncurry was also safely held after leading, and he was beaten by Usain Boss there about a month ago. Blinkers go on and likely to struggle again.

Comment: Returns from a one-month freshening after finishing sixth at Muswellbrook, beaten seven and a half lengths at long odds, and the market has shown little confidence in her this campaign. Two back she was last at Taree, well beaten by 23 lengths, with a slow start and wide run noted. Recent figures make this a tough assignment.

Comment: Has been a model of consistency without winning, placing four times from five starts in the past 12 months and running second at Tamworth at his past two. He was beaten two and a half lengths by Crime Of Passion last start as odds-on favourite after being bumped, and now gets weight relief with first-time blinkers. The 5 1/2f record is the query, but he rates highly.

Comment: Resumed with a sound third at Tamworth over 7f, sitting just behind the leaders and fighting on when beaten just under four lengths by Crime Of Passion. She had been a well-supported favourite when a close fifth at Wyong in April, with lameness noted there. The top weight is the query, but she profiles as a genuine place hope.

Comment: Has shaped with promise in two starts, improving from a debut fourth at Illawarra Grange to third in mid-week company at Warwick Farm when beaten four and a half lengths by Zahav. She did not finish off as strongly as expected after bumping near the 3/4f, so there is some room to mark that run up. The new 1m trip asks a question, but she has clear upside.

Comment: Has been safely held at Hawkesbury at her past two, finishing ninth last start when beaten just over seven lengths at big odds after settling well back. She had also been seventh there at long odds after beginning slowly and making no late impression. Others bring stronger claims.

Comment: Worked into third at Muswellbrook last start, beaten just over five lengths after giving away ground from the back, but that was in country company and this is a harder assignment. Two back she was last in a Class 1 at Newcastle after racing wide without cover, so that run can be treated with some caution. Needs to find a few lengths.

Comment: Finished seventh first-up at Beaumont (newcastle), beaten four and a half lengths, but there were genuine excuses after she was hampered shortly after the start and again on the home turn. That came in country company and she now steps into a harder provincial maiden, while 1m is new ground. Blinkers go on and the 1m task keeps her more a place hope.

Comment: Had excuses at Wyong last start when tightened shortly after the start and bumped before finishing tenth, beaten eight lengths, so that result is not the whole story. Her previous Newcastle third behind Perini Miss was much more relevant, where she travelled well and worked home evenly. Newcastle placing two back and Jason Collett going on make her a strong contender.

Comment: Had a genuine excuse at Hawkesbury last start, held up in the straight before finishing fourth and beaten five lengths behind El Pablo. The concern is what came before it, as she was well beaten at Newcastle and has already been beaten by Golden Princess in this campaign. Gets a better set up and can sneak into the minor money.

Comment: Returns from a five-week freshening after a fair fifth at Tamworth, beaten just under four lengths by Grafology after racing keenly and failing to quicken. He was also safely held there the run prior, though he did make late ground from the rear. Looks better suited as a place chance than a winner.

Comment: Went close at Taree last start, sitting just behind the leaders and finishing second to Rupertano, beaten just over half a length on soft ground. That followed a solid Dubbo sixth as favourite, where he blundered at the start yet was only beaten two and a half lengths. Clear top pick.

Comment: Worked home into fourth at Wyong last start, beaten three and a half lengths after being kept near the top of an open market. His Rosehill run prior was in BM72 grade, where he was bumped at the start and raced wide from the 4f before finishing ninth. Track-and-trip win and 3lbs claim keep him in the place mix.

Comment: Went close at Hawkesbury last start, sitting behind the leaders before taking over and being beaten just over half a length by Superata. That was a clear lift on his sixth over 5 1/2f, but he now steps back to 1m after one previous unplaced try around the trip. Claim helps again and should be in this for a long way.

Comment: Comes back from BM68 and FM BM72 company, so the grade relief is tangible, and her record at 1m is sound for this level. The issue is that she was sixth at Hawkesbury last start, beaten five and a half lengths by Showmara, with the rider reporting she did not handle the rain-affected conditions. No surprise to see her bounce back.

Comment: Built a strong campaign and comes off a Hawkesbury BM68 win, leading and finding enough to beat Malbork Castle by a head on soft ground. That followed a narrow Nowra BM58 second as favourite, so his recent pattern is reliable. Siena Grima stays aboard with a 3lbs claim, and he has already won at this distance. Grima's claim and the mile record make him a major winning hope.

Comment: Returns from a one-month freshening after a strong Warwick Farm third in CG BM72 metro company, beaten a length and a half by Fierceness on soft ground. He had raced keenly there yet still held the minor money, and his Illawarra Grange fourth prior had merit after jumping awkwardly. Easier company, barrier one and Jason Collett make him the one to beat.

Comment: Returns from a three-month break after being well beaten at this track, finishing second last behind Longinus by over 18 lengths on soft ground. A Hawkesbury trial a few weeks ago gives some readiness, and he did run fourth in BM68 grade at Kembla Grange in that earlier campaign. Last run was plain, so improvement is required fresh.

Comment: Was fair only at Beaumont (newcastle) last start, settling rearward and finishing eighth, beaten just under four lengths at generous odds. She had run third at Newcastle at long odds before that, but meets a harder assignment from country company and rises to a trip where her only previous try around 1m was unplaced. Can race closer today but the mile looks a stretch.

Comment: Shaped better at Canberra last start, finishing fourth in a Class 2 over 7f, beaten three and a half lengths after tracking the speed. This is a harder meeting, but he gets weight relief and returns to a distance where he has two wins and four placings from 15 starts. Has place claims if he brings his best mile form.

Comment: Found wanting late when last of six at Kembla Grange over 1m, beaten three and a half lengths by Cap D'Ail, and now goes to 1 1/4m for the first time. His Newcastle fourth prior had more merit after an awkward start and a held-up run, while Andrew Calder has a useful record on him. Place claims look realistic.

Comment: Drops sharply out of BM72 grade after a sound Newcastle fifth over 1 3/16m, beaten a length and a half by Sumac at generous odds after being bumped early and racing wide through the middle stages. He was fitter for that second-up run after fading over 7 1/2f first-up, and he should race handy from barrier five. Third-up, he looks a major winning chance.

Comment: Rises from a country Canberra run to stronger company, but that fifth behind Pure Melody was better than it reads after she was checked late and beaten just under two lengths. She had been a well-supported favourite when second by a neck to Star Turn Dancer the start prior, and her four placings from five starts at this distance are a key asset. Drawn low and expected to go close.

Comment: Comes back from a BM64 at Hawkesbury after finishing last, beaten just over eight lengths by Malbork Castle, when unwanted in the market and unable to challenge. She was beaten over 15 lengths at the same venue prior, so the recent form is plain. Outclassed.

Comment: Returns from a five-week freshening after finishing seventh in a BM58 at Dubbo, beaten six and a half lengths by Backhander, and that came at country level before a stronger meeting here. Her Bowraville third prior was sound after racing wide throughout and being beaten a long neck, but she has been unplaced in two tries at this distance. Distance record keeps her to place claims.

Comment: Was beaten over 13 lengths first-up in a Mdn at Muswellbrook, with a slow start and wide run adding some context but not enough to hide the margin. He also finished last on debut at Quirindi after over-racing. The 1 1/4m task looks a big ask.

Comment: Resumed with a distant fifth in a Mdn at Muswellbrook, beaten just over nine lengths by Imelda after covering ground and only battling late. The prior Happy Valley run in RST60-40 grade was also unplaced despite market respect, and he remains winless from eleven starts. Improver from the better draw.

Comment: Finished last at Canberra behind Pure Melody, beaten just over nine lengths at long odds, and the stewards' note of racing keenly does not provide enough of an excuse. He had also been last in a Mdn at Kembla Grange when unwanted in betting. Hard to recommend even with the blinkers going on.

Comment: Made ground from an awkward position when fourth at Canberra behind Pure Melody, beaten just under two lengths at big odds, and that form has extra relevance because she beat Liyah's Girl home there. Her Moruya fourth prior in a Mdn was also encouraging after a slow start on soft ground. Winless record is the knock, but she is in the mix.

Comment: Closed to fourth in a Mdn at Hawkesbury, beaten just under a length by My Cartouche despite racing keenly and being checked at the 1f, so the run has more substance than the market expected. His Goulburn fourth prior on soft ground was also sound after racing keenly throughout. The 1 1/4m is new, but he has a live winning chance.

Comment: Came off a sound Class 2 effort at Port Macquarie and converted last start, winning by just over a length on soft ground after racing wide early and then stretching out with something in hand. That was in country company and this is a harder meeting, but his 5 1/2f record reads well with three wins and six placings around the trip. Harder meeting now, but the form gives him genuine place claims.

Comment: Returns from a one-month let-up after finishing fourth in an Open at Muswellbrook, beaten a length and a half after tracking the speed but not quite finishing off. The run prior in a BM74 at Scone was poor, yet this is a softer grade profile and Mitchell Bell reunites with a solid record aboard. Softer grade profile helps, provided he finishes off better than at Muswellbrook.

Comment: Has built a strong winning case through his past two runs, scoring in a BM58 at Goulburn as a short favourite before running second to Miss Emma at Kembla Grange, beaten just under two lengths after travelling well. The wide draw asks for some luck, but he is race fit, proven around 5 1/2f and comes through consistent recent form. Wide draw is the query, but his 5 1/2f profile makes him the one to beat.

Comment: Worked home evenly from the rear when fourth in an Open at Canberra, beaten two and a half lengths after being slow away. Her previous fourth at Newcastle came in a small BM68 where she was beaten just over five lengths at big odds. Must lift to trouble some of these.

Comment: Went very close in a Class 1 at Kembla Grange, finishing third and beaten half a length after covering ground and being tightened near the 1/4f. That followed another sound third at Hawkesbury behind Flight Of Power, so the form is holding together. Fourth-up now and ready to win if the draw does not hurt.

Comment: Has been placed and fourth at Hawkesbury in his past two starts, but both came at long odds and last start he was beaten four lengths in a small field after only working home fairly. Will need a good ride from the draw.

Comment: Returns from a two-month let-up after finishing ninth first-up at Tuncurry, beaten seven lengths in a BM74 when making no late impression. Goes okay here and look for a better run.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after ending last preparation with a heavy-track failure at Randwick-Kensington, where she was beaten over 19 lengths and no abnormality was reported. That is the clear caution, but she has since won a Gosford trial and is two from two at the trials since racing. Last campaign ended poorly, but her fresh profile keeps her right in this.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after a short first campaign that produced a Hawkesbury FM Mdn win and a Warwick Farm second, beaten just under a length in F Open company. She trialled at Randwick last month, which gives some fitness reference, and her two-start record at the trip is sound. Has upside, and looks up to this after the one trial.

Comment: Returns from a two-month freshening after a sharp Canberra BM60 win, beating Shaft Attack by a length and a half as favourite after leading and kicking strongly. She rises to BM64 grade, but drops in weight and Winona Costin has already won on her. Class rise is the query, and place claims look best.

Comment: Was unwanted in the market first-up at Hawkesbury and finished seventh, beaten six and a half lengths after settling rearward and making no impression. Unlikely to trouble some of these.

Comment: Was pipped at the post at Nowra last start, beaten a long neck by Alabama Showdown after sitting behind the leaders under 134lbs. He had also been close enough at Illawarra Grange when fourth and beaten just under two lengths. Recent form is sound, but he profiles better for exotics.
