Comment: Returns from a six-week let-up after closing from well back for sixth at Northam, beaten just over two lengths by Grey Ol' Day at big odds. The run prior on heavy ground was plain, beaten over 16 lengths behind Tag Time. The 7lbs claim helps, but his 5f record points more to place claims.

Comment: Returns from a five-month break after finishing third on debut in a Mdn over 6f at Kalgoorlie, beaten just under two lengths by White Hot on soft ground. He travelled well there and was respected near the top of an open market. Debut placing reads well enough, provided 5f is not too sharp.

Comment: Led on debut at Northam and was still around the mark late before finishing eighth, beaten three and a half lengths by Maestra. He was unwanted in the market at 91.0, so there was little public confidence, but the effort showed enough natural pace to work with. Second-up lift possible, though others bring stronger form.

Comment: Second-up after finishing 11th at Bunbury, beaten just over eight lengths by Flying In The Wind after settling handy and only battling. That provincial run now has to translate to a harder meeting, and her previous Northam 12th in a Mdn was also below the required level. Distance placing offers only a minor hope.

Comment: Had a case to forgive last start at Northam when held up near the 1/2f before finishing 11th, beaten just under five lengths by Maestra, though she was unwanted in the market. The start prior she was a well-supported favourite but faded into eighth behind Reginetta. Winning record is the query, but she can land in the minors.

Comment: Brings a solid platform fourth-up after finishing third at Northam two back, beaten a length and a half by Miss Profligacy, then fourth last week behind Luminous Lil. He was difficult to settle in the middle stages last start and still held on for fourth in a Mdn. Has to turn the tables on Keppel Gate, but remains a strong winning hope.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell with a trial win at this venue two weeks ago, which at least suggests she has been readied for the comeback. She was third at Collie when last seen, beaten just over seven lengths after racing wide throughout, and had also placed at Toodyay before that. Race form is modest, so she must prove it under race pressure.

Comment: Makes his debut after two Lark Hill trials and gets first-time blinkers, which is the key gear angle. The available trial margins do not make a strong public case, and the stable's debut record is light on winners from the supplied sample. Looks one for improvement rather than a leading hope.

Comment: Debuts for a stable with a useful track profile and has a leading local jockey claim through Holly Nottle. His latest trial at this venue was a fourth over 5f, much better than the earlier 11th trial, so there is some progression in the public evidence. Trial improvement gives him genuine place appeal.

Comment: Closed strongly from well back for third at Northam last week, beaten a length and a half by Luminous Lil, and that effort also had her ahead of Incredible Mr Fox. She has placed at both 5f starts and was near the top of betting there, so the market has already respected the profile. Wide draw is the query, but her form is among the best here.

Comment: Debuts with two recent trials behind her, including a solid second at this venue over 5f after winning a short 2f trial earlier. The Sean and Jake Casey yard has supplied debut winners in the sample, and the trainer-sire figures are respectable. Place at best for now.

Comment: Was slow to begin and hampered near the 1 1/2f when eighth at this track last start, beaten just over six lengths after giving away a start. His Northam fifth before that was sound enough, picking up well on soft ground when beaten just under three lengths. Has place claims, but the 6f record keeps the win case in check.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after running second on debut at Bunbury, where he started favourite, raced a touch keenly and chased soundly to be beaten just over a length by Dark Avalanche. A comfortable Belmont Park trial win gives him a measured readiness pointer for this return. Looks the one to beat.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell after two unplaced runs in his first campaign, the latest an eighth at Pinjarra Scarpside when beaten just under five lengths after not finishing off. He had interference noted there and has since trialled a close second at Lark Hill, so there is some readiness. Looking elsewhere.

Comment: Back from a three-month break after an eighth at Bunbury, where he was unwanted in the market, held up briefly and beaten just over five lengths on soft ground. His prior 14th at the same venue was beaten over 10 lengths, so the recent race form is thin. Has to show far more at 6f.

Comment: Debuts off two trials, most recently a 5f Belmont Park trial last month where he finished sixth and was beaten over four lengths. He was a $1,750 purchase and the stable has limited supplied debut evidence, so there is not a strong exposed push. Others bring stronger evidence.

Comment: Drops sharply from the Listed Belgravia Stakes after finishing fifth at Ascot, beaten three lengths at big odds behind Beatty, and that Saturday company form reads well for a Mdn. He also caught the eye from well back at Northam start prior. Maiden record is the knock, but this is easier and he rates strongly.

Comment: Was beaten over 16 lengths in the Listed Belgravia Stakes after jumping awkwardly and weakening from the 2f, so that run has to be treated cautiously rather than upgraded. His debut fifth at this track behind In Good Nicc was much more encouraging, beaten just under two lengths at big odds. Drawn barrier 1 and can bounce into the placings.

Comment: Back from a six-month break after finishing last on debut at this track, beaten over 15 lengths on soft ground after travelling close enough to threaten before weakening badly. He has had two trials since last racing and first-time blinkers go on, which may help sharpen him. Improvement is required.

Comment: Debuts after two trials, with the latest a solid second at Belmont Park over 5f, beaten less than a length. That gives her a more positive readiness profile than several first starters in this field. Race-day pressure is the unknown, but she has place appeal.

Comment: Finished fifth at Northam last start, beaten just over two lengths after covering ground, and had been only just over two lengths away in a NMW1Y at Ascot prior after missing the start and being held up. First-time blinkers and visor go on fourth-up, and she has been near the top of betting recently. The 6f record is a query, but she can win.

Comment: Was safely held first-up at Northam when ninth, beaten just over four lengths after racing just off the lead at generous odds. Her previous run was a plain 12th in Open grade at this track, beaten just over eight lengths. Must find a sharper finish.

Comment: Worked home from well back when seventh at Northam last start, but she was unwanted in betting and beaten just under seven lengths by Blue Destiny. Two back she raced keenly, sat close enough and failed to finish off when second last. Others look more reliable.

Comment: Made an encouraging debut at Northam, slow away before charging home from well back to finish sixth, beaten three and a half lengths by Von Rommel. That closing effort suggests natural improvement second-up, and her $300,000 yearling background adds substance to the profile. With natural second-up improvement, she profiles as a genuine danger.

Comment: Debuts for a stable with supplied debut winners and arrives off three trials, including a 5f Belmont Park trial win two weeks ago. The 7lbs claim is another practical advantage for a filly having her first race start. Unknown on race day, but the groundwork is solid.

Comment: Debuts for Simon A Miller with Chris Parnham booked, which adds interest, and she was a $46,000 yearling purchase. Her two recent Belmont Park trials were both fourths, the latest over 5f beaten just under three lengths. Fair grounding, but others have stronger trial or race form.

Comment: Finished 14th at this track last start, beaten over 11 lengths at big odds after racing wide throughout, so there was some cost attached to the run without making it a complete excuse. His Pinjarra third prior showed he can race on speed and stick on, but he was still beaten four and a half lengths. Has to turn that form around sharply.

Comment: Placed at this track last start when third to Tex 'N' Cee, beaten two lengths after leading, which was a more competitive effort than his overall profile suggests. The Kalgoorlie run prior was also not far away after a slow beginning. Race-fit and honest, but the winning edge is still to be proven.

Comment: Returns from a lengthy spell with the strongest back-form in the race, last seen in the G1 Australasian Oaks at Morphettville where she was 14th behind Panova. The run prior was a solid third in F Open grade at Caulfield, beaten just over two lengths after being hampered, and she has two placings from three starts around 7f. If forward enough, she has the class to go close.

Comment: Returned with a strong second at Northam, beaten just over half a length by Bysin after settling back and finishing off well. He was well-supported favourite in Open grade at this track before the break and was only fair on soft ground, so the recent run is the better guide. The 7f record is only fair, but recent form gives him a live winning chance.

Comment: Went within a long neck at Geraldton last start after travelling well just off the speed and being pipped late. His Bunbury fifth prior had merit too, coming from well back to make ground after racing keenly early. First look at 7f is the query, so he profiles as a place hope.

Comment: Made some ground into fourth at Northam last start, beaten two and a half lengths after beginning slowly and settling well back. His Kalgoorlie fifth before that was sound enough without being threatening, and he is still unplaced from six starts overall. More improvement is required.

Comment: Has the right ratings profile for this race and is marked strongly at the distance and on time, even though his first-up sixth at this track was plain when beaten just over five lengths. The start prior in Open grade at this venue was better than it looks after he began awkwardly and raced wide. Second-up for the Parnham stable and looks the one to beat.

Comment: Resumed with a close third at Northam, beaten just under a length by Swing Bar after travelling well and finishing strongly. That backed up a Bunbury second before the break where he was held up on straightening and beaten a long neck as favourite. Barrier 1 and proven at the trip make him a strong chance.

Comment: Improved sharply third-up when third at this track last start, beaten a length and a half after leading and only being run down late. That came after he was outclassed at big odds in the Listed MAX SIMMONDS STAKES, so this is a more realistic assignment. Solid place claims.

Comment: Finished tenth at this track last start, beaten just over six lengths after knuckling on jumping and settling back, and the market wanted little to do with her. She had every chance to be closer at Northam the run prior but failed to finish it off. The 4lbs claim helps, but she must lift markedly.

Comment: Began slowly and made no impression on debut at Northam, finishing eighth behind Swing Bar and beaten just under eight lengths at big odds. He has the Neville Parnham stable behind him and the family includes Vitalize, a city winner over 7f at Belmont Park, but the race evidence is thin. Stable profile is a plus, but he has plenty to find on race form.

Comment: Makes his debut off two Lark Hill trials, with the latest an eighth over 5 1/4f beaten 2.42 lengths. Stephen Miller has had some debut success from limited numbers, and the family includes Jamaican Rumba, a six-time winner, along with Petite Vitesse, who won over 7f at Belmont Park. Market support would be a guide; race experience is the obvious gap.

Comment: Was beaten out of sight at Ascot last start as one of the better-fancied runners, with stewards noting she hung out and was eased. Her Northam fifth prior had more merit, coming from well back in a Mdn after covering ground, and first-time blinkers may help her focus. Earlier Northam run was better, but trust is the major issue.

Comment: Returned with a strong third at Ascot, beaten half a length by Hamadryad after beginning slowly and settling well back. She had earlier found NMW company at this track beyond her, but that run also came with a tightened-for-room note. Strong chance with cleaner manners.

Comment: Has been consistent through three starts and was second at Northam last time, beaten just over a length in a Mdn after tracking the speed. Her Ascot fourth prior in NMW1Y grade was also sound, with a late held-up note, and Dion Luciani's strong track record is a useful pointer. Trainer's track record helps; she is a genuine place hope.

Comment: Picked up nicely when fifth at Northam last start, beaten just under three lengths at big odds, which was a step in the right direction from her debut ninth. She is still unplaced from two starts and was behind Non Reflective in that latest race, but third-up improvement is possible. Still unplaced, but capable of sneaking into the minors.

Comment: Finished eighth at this track last start, beaten just over six lengths at long odds after settling back and being hampered near the 1 1/2f. His Northam fifth prior was more competitive, beaten just under three lengths on soft ground, but the broader record is a concern with no wins from eleven starts. Minor claims at best.

Comment: Resumes after two months off the back of a strong BM66+ second at this track, where she travelled smoothly on soft ground and was only pipped late by Pingers. She had charged home from the rear when favourite in BM72+ company the start prior, so the drop back to Class 5 company is significant. The class drop and 7lbs claim make her the one to beat.

Comment: Had more merit than sixth suggests at Ascot last start, beaten just over a length in a BM66+ after racing wide throughout. His Kalgoorlie run prior was plain on paper, but he was still near the top of an open market and not disgraced. Back in grade and reunites with a rider who has won three on him.

Comment: Produced his best recent run when second to Keep Reading in a BM66+ at Ascot, finishing strongly from the rear and beating Cannykev home. The start prior he worked home well over 6f in a 1 Metro Win at long odds, so the form is trending the right way. Wide draw and modest track-and-trip record make him more place than win.

Comment: Has been well held at his past two country starts, most recently fifth at Leinster when beaten just over eight lengths in a BM64+. He was also last at Leonora two back, well beaten by 23 lengths after being prominent in the betting. The race grade eases, but this is a harder meeting and his 5f record gives little comfort. Has to find a much sharper sprinting run.

Comment: Was outclassed in Open grade at Ascot last start, finishing second last and beaten over 12 lengths after leading and fading, with an awkward jump noted. His win before that at this track in NMW1Y grade was much better, leading and beating Rocktex by just over a length as favourite. Earlier win at this track keeps him in play.

Comment: Returns from a five-month break after being beaten just over a length at this track on heavy ground, where he led before tiring and hung out in the straight. He had won at Bunbury the run prior at big odds, but that came in a previous campaign and his fresh readiness is not supported by a trial note here. Has speed and past wins, but this looks a tough fresh assignment.

Comment: Returns from an eight-month break with a close second in her latest trial at this venue, which gives her a measured fitness pointer. Her last campaign produced a fair fifth at Ascot in Class 3 company and a second-last over this trip, but she is a proven track-and-distance winner. Track-and-trip win gives her place claims fresh.

Comment: Was better than the market expected at Ascot last start, finishing fourth at big odds and beaten just under two lengths despite being steadied early and held up near the 1f. Her Bunbury fifth prior was honest enough in NMW1Y grade. Track-and-trip winner with a claim, so she can land in the placings.

Comment: Placed in a small BM56+ field at Collie last start, but this is a harder meeting and he was still beaten just under three lengths after settling back. His Ascot fifth prior had some merit at big odds, though he has been unplaced in all four starts at this track and distance. Weight relief helps, but he must improve.

Comment: Most recently ran second last of 8 in a Grad Hcp 58+ at Ascot on October 31 over 1 3/8m, slow going 3.5 len behind I Love Ya Money carrying 129lbs at $26. The race before that eased back early on 8th of 11 in a Rtg 66+ at Ascot on October 24 over 1 3/8m, 6 len behind All Grunt carrying 119lbs at $31. Can improve again. Capable of sharp improvement.

Comment: Eased from Saturday company after finishing fourth in a 1 Metro Win at Ascot last start, beaten two and a half lengths on soft ground. Start prior she swept home at this track to beat Rock The Mic by just over three lengths at generous odds, and the five-day back-up is assessed as suitable. Won well at this track prior and looks the benchmark.

Comment: Comes to a harder meeting after grinding into third in a BM64+ at Collie, beaten just over five lengths, with the market having her near the top of an open race. She had earlier run second at Moora and has now placed both runs this campaign. Solid in both runs back and she won't be far away.

Comment: Improved sharply when second in a BM64+ at Collie last start, beaten a length and a half by Asarka after racing wide and being hampered near the 1/2f. That was country company and today is a harder meeting, but barrier one suits a runner who can race forward. Barrier one helps; 1 5/16m record keeps him more place hope than clear top pick.

Comment: Had some excuse when covering ground at this track last start, but still finished 12th, beaten eight lengths by Capable Angel, and was unwanted in the market. His previous run was another plain effort in a Class 1 at Ascot when second last at long odds. Looking to others.

Comment: Has been safely held in three runs this campaign, most recently sixth at Bunbury when beaten just under five lengths and lacking the dash to make a serious bid. Two back he was seventh in a BM50+ at Northam, with some late interference but still only fair through the line. Place chance if he finds his old staying form.

Comment: Third-up with Holly Nottle claiming 3lbs, but his two runs this campaign have been well below the level required. He was 13th at this track last start, beaten eight and a half lengths at long odds, after being last at York when unwanted in betting. Finds the right race this time and can improve.

Comment: Gets back to a track and distance where he has won, and he is dropping out of a BM64+ fifth at Collie. The concern is the lack of recent impact, with that latest run still beaten six and a half lengths and his previous BM44+ effort at York a last placing, beaten over 11 lengths after racing wide. Must lift sharply.

Comment: Produced a much better run than the market expected at this track last start, charging home for fourth after being unwanted in betting and having difficulty getting clear near the 1f. She was slow away at York the run prior and never really in the hunt. Still winless at the trip, but the closing run makes her a live danger.

Comment: Gear changes bring some interest, with a first-time visor applied and Shaun O'Donnell back on, but her recent form is thin. She was ninth at this track last start, beaten six and a half lengths at long odds, after finishing last at Bunbury when also beaten six and a half lengths. Others appeal more.

Comment: Finished fourth first-up at Northam, beaten two and a half lengths after settling handy and failing to go on with it. That was in provincial company and he now faces a harder meeting. The start prior was a fifth in 1 Metro Win grade at this track on soft ground, where he raced keenly early. Others make more appeal.

Comment: Has held his form exceptionally well this season, placing again when third in NMW1Y grade at Ascot after leading and being run down late. He comes back from Saturday company and had already been pipped over this track in 1 Metro Win grade at his previous run. Top chance.

Comment: Resumes after five months off following a last placing at Northam, where she was sent out favourite but hung out from the 3 1/2f and was beaten over 16 lengths. Her previous run was a determined Class 1 win at this track, beating Mysterious Fortune as a well-supported favourite. Last run was poor, but the prior win at this track reads well.

Comment: Resumes after eight months off with two trials since last racing and a 7lbs apprentice claim to assist. He was eighth at Ascot in Class 3 grade when unwanted in the market, beaten two and a half lengths without a clear excuse. The prior third in 1 Metro Win grade had merit after he worked home from well back and was held up late. Looking elsewhere with him first-up.

Comment: Made a winning debut at Northam in a Mdn over 5 1/2f, coming from back in the field to beat Buster's Babe by half a length despite difficulty getting clear near the 1f. That was a professional enough start from an outside chance in betting. The 6 1/2f is new, but there is upside.

Comment: Went very close at Northam last start, finishing third and beaten just over half a length after settling back, covering ground and only being pipped late. She now comes from provincial grade to a harder meeting, but the run had clear substance. Her previous Ascot effort in 1 Metro Win grade is easier to forgive after being held up on the home turn. Proven at 6 1/2f and right in this.

Comment: Resumes after four months off following an eighth at Bunbury, beaten just under six lengths after racing wide throughout in Class 3 grade. She had been favourite when winning a BM44+ at Pinjarra the start prior, beating Gav Has Spoken on soft ground. Her distance record is useful, but three unplaced runs at this track temper the enthusiasm. Can resume on a positive note.

Comment: Worked home soundly when fourth in NMW1Y grade at Ascot last start, beaten three and a half lengths behind Delzee at long odds. She drops back from Saturday company and is third-up, which gives her the right set-up. The start prior was a close fifth at this track over 5f after being bumped and laying in. The 6 1/2f record is the main reservation.

Comment: Resumes after six months off with an Albany trial behind her and Shaun McGruddy back aboard, a rider she has won with before. She was fifth at Pinjarra Scarpside in Class 3 grade at her final run before the break, beaten just over two lengths at big odds, after a plain sixth on heavy ground at Albany. Not here.
